THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 1897.

MINING NOTES.

A rich gold strike is reported to have been made near Harqua Hala.

A meeting of the shareholders of the Boston & Montana Company will be held in Butte on the 29th inst., at which time there will be present some of the largest operators and owners of copper mines in the world. Directors will be elected at this meeting.

Professor Ricketts, who has been doing quite a little experting work for the Copper Queen Company, returned from a short trip last evening. He will not remain in Bisbee very long but will probably leave in three or four days for Colorado, where he will investigate some promising properties. —Prospector.

About 85 men are employed at the Pearce mine, Cochise county, but the larger proportion of these men are on the surface engaged in putting up buildings and getting ready for the 40-ton mill which is to be completed before long. A depth of 300 feet has now been reached on the vein and no diminution of the ore is perceptible.

A blind lead was uncovered in the 1200-foot level of the Anaconda mine one day last week, says the Western Mining World, which is considered one of the most remarkable instances in connection with mining that has occurred in this camp. It is said that the character of the quartz is similar to that above, but richer in copper and carrying more gold and silver.

The machinery for the King of Arizona Mining Company, which Messrs. Gleason and Duncan went to Los Angeles last week to purchase, arrived here Wednesday night, and Thursday morning was taken to Tucson, from where it will be freighted to the Gila river. The millstone is at Mohave. The mills are two in number, a five-stamp mill and a three and one-half foot Huntington. As fast as the mines are opened more machinery will be added. —Yuma Sun.

A Clifton correspondent of the Globe-Democrat, writing of the plans of the Detroit Copper Company, says: Changes that will more than double the output are to be made at once, and the management of the camp is to be remodeled upon the plan of Bisbee, which is recognized as the best governed camp in the southwest, as Monro is here notorious for the opposite condition. At present water for the smelters must be pumped, with more than 1500 feet of lift, and there are many difficulties attending transportation to and from the mines over a 20 inch gauge railway and steep surface inclines owned by the Arizona Copper Company, of Clifton, whose mines adjoin those of the Detroit company. It is understood that these difficulties will be overcome by the construction of a gravity and electric railway down the mountain from the mine a distance of twelve miles to the San Francisco river, on the line of the Arizona & New Mexico railway. Sulphuric acid leachers will then be erected for the treatment of the rebellious ores.

During the past winter the prospector has done good work in Arizona, New Mexico and in Southern California, and as a result there have been more reports of the discovery of valuable mines and the opening up of new districts in that part of the country during the past three or four months than there has been for several years before. What is best about it all, says the Mining & Scientific Press, is the fact that capitalists or representatives of capital have paid attention to these reports and followed them up, and as a result a great deal of development work is being done and the prospector's labors will not go in vain so much as they have in the past decade and a half, during which the mining industry has been in the dumps and men of means have sought other sources for investment. For many years back the prospector's reports have not been noticed—even when he has made valuable discoveries. He has been neglected, looked upon as about "played out" and treated with scant courtesy by capital. Now this is all changed. Capital keeps an eye on the prospector and is very glad to give heed to him.

The mines and reduction works of the United Verde Copper Company, at Jerome, are at present employing over 500 men and are handling approximately 400 tons of ore per day. The principal shaft is about 500 feet deep and from different levels tunnels have been driven, and the underground workings are extensive. The engine capacity of the plant amounts to 2000-horse power, which is utilized in hoisting ore, operating air drills, copper converters, machine shop and a 40-ton crane. A vast amount of new iron work is being put in, consisting of structural works for buildings covering the entire plant, consisting of engine and boiler rooms, converters, blast furnaces, machine shops and foundry. Additional engines and boilers and two new converters are being put in. A new reverberatory furnace has just been completed which will be used in smelting the finer ores, especially those rich in silver. The ore when taken from the mines is first roasted in heaps, whereby it is desulphurized. It then goes to the blast furnaces and finally to the converters. The copper bullion which is thus produced is about 99 per cent pure copper.—Cor. Mining & Scientific Press.
